EVENT SPEAKER

Cory A. Genelin

GISLASON & HUNTER, LLP
ATTORNEYS AT LAW

Cory Genelin is a partner in the firm of Gislason & Hunter, working primarily out of the firm's Mankato office. Cory is the Chair of Gislason & Hunter's Employment, Labor, and Benefits Practice Group. Cory is currently the Legislative Chair of the Southern Minnesota Area Human Resources Association.

A professional problem solver, Cory combines knowledge of the law with common sense and leadership experience. Cory's practice includes civil litigation, employment law, banking law, and business law.

Cory serves as employment counsel for many businesses in southern Minnesota. While no stranger to litigation, Cory excels at producing policies, handbooks, and checklists designed to keep problems from ever starting. More importantly, Cory provides his clients with the training they need to implement these policies. He is also available and responsive when employment decisions need to be made on short notice.

When counseling employers and HR managers, Cory draws on his years of leadership experience in the United States Air Force. As a decorated commander with combat experience, he understands that mission accomplishment requires consistent, fair, and thoughtful discipline. Now serving as a Staff Judge Advocate with the Air National Guard, Cory acts as in-house counsel to a flying Wing with over a thousand employees, many of which are unionized. Cory brings this in-house counsel perspective to his civilian practice; he advises clients not as an outsider, but as a team member and leader.

Cory's employment law counseling is built on his courtroom experience. He has successfully litigated over a hundred wage and hour, retaliation, harassment, unemployment, non-compete, and workers' compensation cases. Having represented both employers and employees, he is able to see a problem from all angles and anticipate the other side's moves.

In his spare time Cory enjoys coaching youth wrestling and football, fishing, hunting, gardening and spending time with his wife and four children.
